WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF THE FINANCIAL MARKETS BOOTCAMP PROGRAMME?

The local and global banking regulatory landscape has become very complex and are changing rapidly with digital disruption at the heart of innovation. For banks to stay to competitive they need to know who their customers are, understand the mechanics of the local and global financial markets and the impact of competitive forces.

Major complex changes are taking place, e.g. currencies have moved from being paper money now we are influenced by developments such as digital currencies, e.g. bitcoin and the impact this will have on the banking infrastructure. South Africa use to have a single stock exchange, now we have 4 regulated and approved stock exchanges which once again have changed the structure of the financial markets.

Understanding the impact of these structural changes will have a major impact on how banks structure themselves to stay competitive.

By putting this in a recognised skills programme, participants can claim credits for a part qualification. As the unit standards are part of the Certificate in Financial Markets and Instruments programme (SAQA 50481), all learners can also complete the full qualification (with the above skills programme as credits towards the qualification). The full Certificate in Financial Markets and Instruments programme (SAQA 50481), is also FAIS compliant which will again be a big benefit to the bank given the regulatory pressure.
